Allen Dulles Expects Warren Report Soon

BY PERCY WOOD

Allen W. Dulles, a member of the commission investigating President Kennedy's assassination, said yesterday that he "hopes" the group's report will divulge all its information to "stop wild stories circulating, particularly abroad."

Dulles, addressing the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations at the Pick-Congress hotel, said he expects the report to be issued within the next two months, adding — without a qualification this time — "it will be frank, candid, and full."

"I think that's all I should say about the matter," the former head of the central intelligence agency said.

The commission was named by President Johnson and is headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren of the United States Supreme court.

Fear Delay in Report

There have been reports that its findings might not give all information the body has received, or that it might be delayed until after the November election. Dulles appeared to think the latter is unlikely.

Premier Nikita Khrushchev of Russia now wants wars of "liberation from capitalism" thruout the world, and is doing everything he can to subvert the weaker countries, Dulles declared.

"He is for co-existence on the upper level but that doesn't affect him underground," Dulles said. "He told us that in his January, 1961, speech and he has repeated again and again that the way to promote communism is thru subversion."

Warns Against Overconfidence

"There are about 90 Communist parties thruout the world and 75 of them are outside the soviet and Chinese blocs. Some are strong, some weak. Khrushchev is made at Mao [Tse-tung, Chinese Red leader] these days because Mao is trying to take some of these organizations away from him."

Altho the United States is superior militarily to the Soviet Union, Dulles said, this should not lead Americans to be "Magan line-minded," a reference to the string of forts France depended upon to stop the Germans in World War II. The Germans by-passed the barrier.

One question from the audience dealt with the Bay of Pigs fiasco in Cuba in April, 1961—the attempted invasion of Fidel Castro's Cuba allegedly masterminded by the CIA while Dulles was its head and which was a monumental failure.

Asked why the joint chiefs of staff approved such "an outlandish, amateur, amphibious attack," Dulles said he didn't agree with that description.
